
Don't look in the mirror. Don't look in the mirror. Don't look in the mirror...

AAAAHH

Ha ha.
She looked in the

What's
he doing here?

Personally, I liked the tragedies, especially the romantic ones.

My heart would break.

Better you live with a broken heart, than not live at all.

Oh, please.

Sniff!

Jemmah, of course, favored the scary movies.

Martin? Is that you?

mirror...

To Jemmah and I, movies were a window to life outside the space station.
A window to Earth.
Sometimes we'd forget about the characters and just watch the world around them, noting the strange clothes and customs and culture.
We soon became self-appointed experts on the Barely.

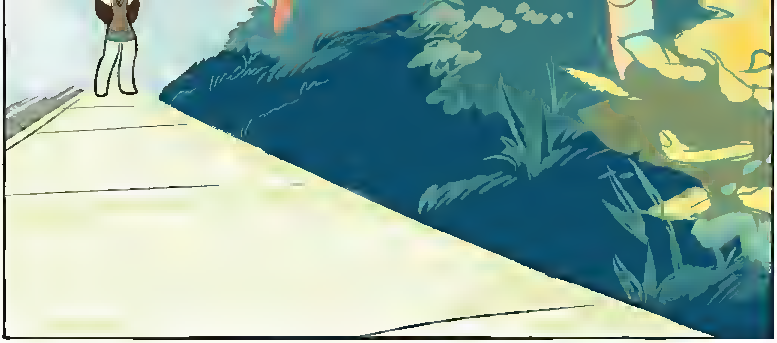
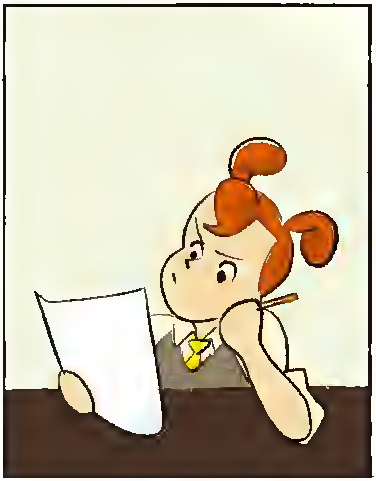
Have a seat, everybody.
Today we'll be doing self-portraits. Use whatever medium you feel fits your personality best.
Art class.



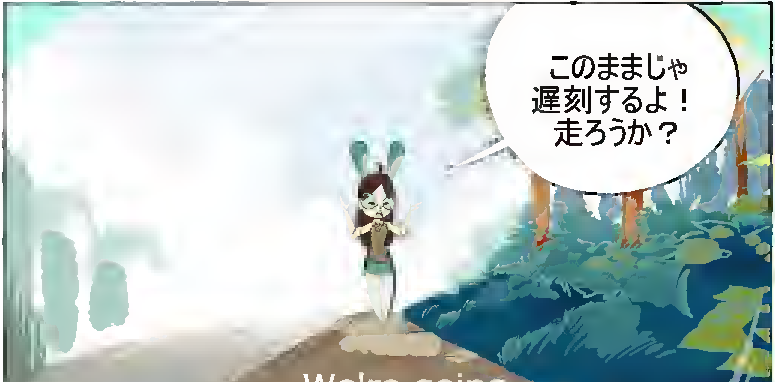
Maki doesn't speak any English, but thanks to net gear glasses the language barrier isn't a problem. All you have to do is open up the settings menu and turn on subtitles.

latest fashions and fads from Earth.

I think that's one reason why it was such a shock to actually move here to Earth.



If I burn this drawing, no one will ever have to know how bad it was.



このままじゃ
遅刻するよ！
走ろうか？
We're going to be late! Should we run?

Oh!
Okay,
but so easy
on me. I suck
at runnings.

Maki has been great

by

Stephen McCranie

@stephenmccranie

With Coloring Assistance by Cartoonist Jenn Myers.
See more of her work at typodmary.com

Also, you can read more of my comics at doodlealley.com!

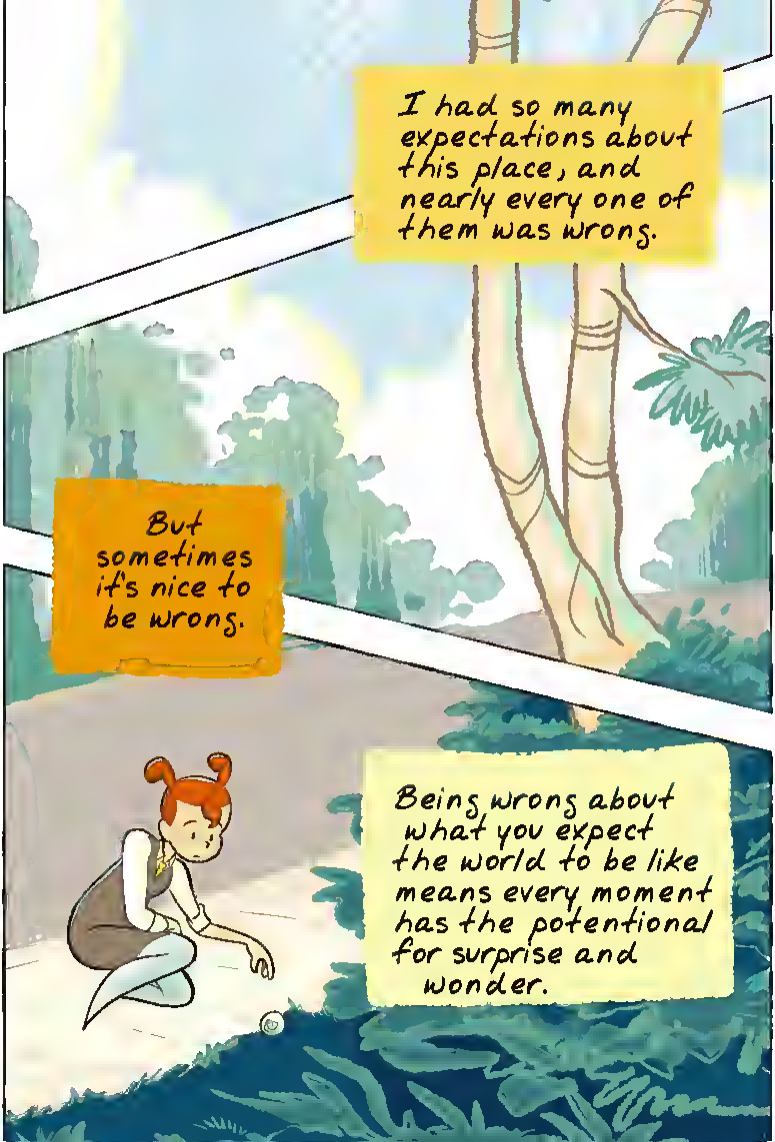
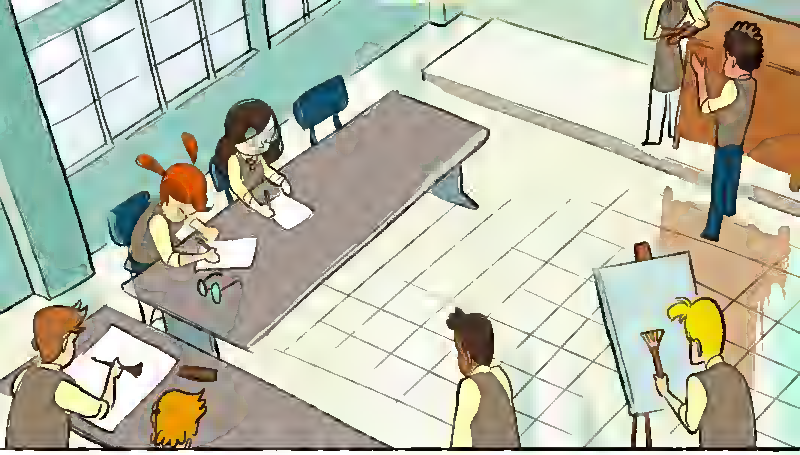
Until next week!

LINE Webtoon
WWW.WEBTOONS.COM



I had so many expectations about this place, and nearly every one of them was wrong.
But sometimes it's nice to be wrong.
Being wrong about what you expect the world to be like means every moment has the potentional for surprise and wonder.



Next to P.E.,
it's my hardest
class.

crumple
crumple

understands what it's like moving to a new place.
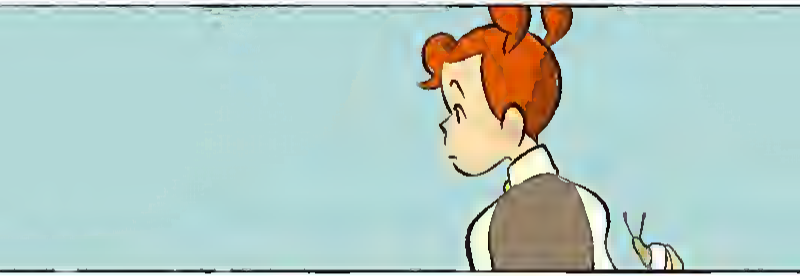
During my first week of school, when I was feeling overwhelmed by all the new things I had to learn, she took me down to an ice cream parlor near Baltissippi Bay.
"Ice cream is the best remedy for culture shock," she said.

Take, for instance, this spiral shaped rock I found just now.

エイミちゃん！



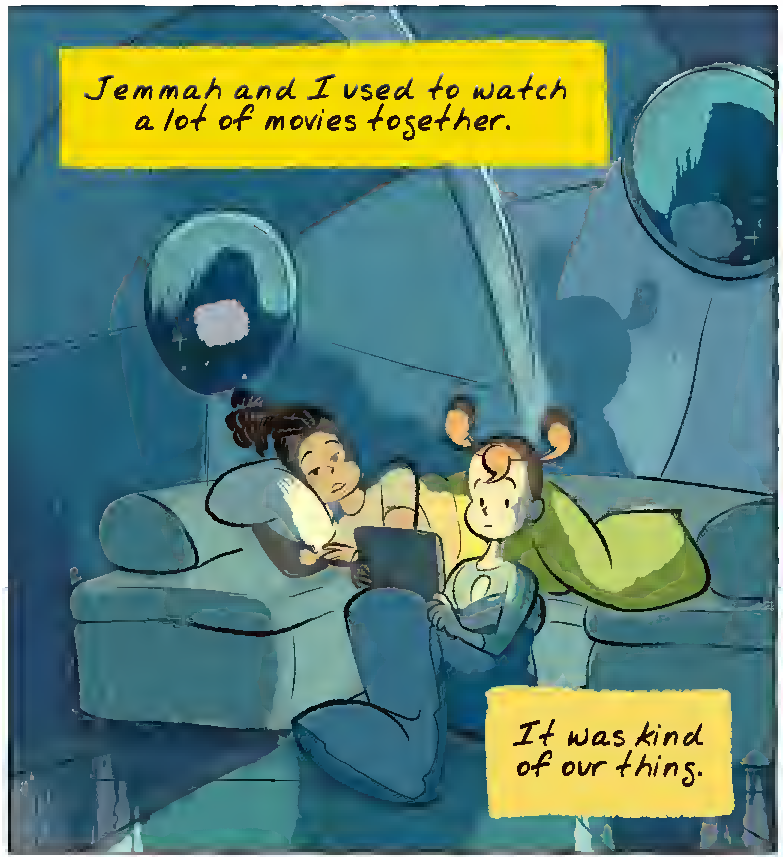
This is Maki, one of the friends David and Cassie introduced me to. She's an exchange student from Nihongolia.
早く！
遅刻しちゃうよ！

!
Turns out there's a tiny creature living inside!
It has these little, pokey eye stocks that extend out to see and then retract back into its body when it gets scared.
How weird is that?
I never saw anything this cool in the movies!

Hmmm...

SPACE

RING!!
Made it!
ギリギリだけどね。



Jemmah and I used to watch a lot of movies together.
It was kind of our thing.

Don't so.

What...